

Breakthrough Technology

At Battelle, we develop, integrate, test and field breakthrough technologies that help our government customers do their jobs faster, cheaper and smarter. First we learn about their missions and the complex challenges they face. Then we team with them to create timely, affordable and innovative solutions.

This team of Battelle staff has been an instrumental part of the government-industrial project that developed the Joint Biological Point Detection System—an automated detection and identification system that will serve the needs of all four services to monitor and warn against biological warfare attacks.

Developers